Farewell to Football

A man states that he can predict the score of any football game even before it begins. How is this possible?

KAY Club members adopt children for Christmas community project

By Clayton, Feature Editor

Christmas is almost here, and the Uniontown Junior High KAY Club is going to be helping Santa give presents. Members are adopting anywhere from seven to 10 children from the Beacon in Fort Scott. Children from the Beacon are those whose families are facing financial difficulties.

"We do it every year, because it's the most fun project," KAY Community Leader Amber Bartlett said.

According to Bartlett, fund raising was from Nov. 10 until Nov. 24. Donations could be money or gifts. The group also sold cookies that they baked in the FACS room to raise money. They hoped to raise $50 per adopted child.

KAY members went to Wal-Mart to shop for gifts on Dec. 1. In groups of three to four, KAY members bought gifts for their child. Each group had a Christmas wish list for each child which was provided by the Beacon. When members returned from shopping, they wrapped the presents they bought.

"I like helping the kids out who don't have enough money for Christmas. It makes me feel great," Danisha said.

What do you want for Christmas and why?

Hannah Seventh Grade

"A new lava lamp, because my cousin broke my old one."

Allen Seventh Grade

"I want a 4 x 4 truck, because it's cool."

Sloane Seventh Grade

"Money, so then I can spend it on myself."

Orlando Seventh Grade

"A brother, because I have a lot of sisters."

Ashley Seventh Grade

"I want a pony, because then I can ride it to school."

Jared Seventh Grade

"I would like to get some more goats for Christmas."
