If you have not noticed, Jim Mason and Jean Cook are the hall monitors this year. If you indeed have not noticed this then I can only assume that you are blind.

If you are truly blind, then this editorial does not apply to you. For those of you who are able to see, at least clearly enough to realize how annoying the monitors' presence can be, read on.

First, I will begin by explaining that I do understand why the school has hall monitoring in place. Students can become quite rowdy at times, and there does need to be someone there to calm the situation down. Therefore, the need for the monitors is there.

Famous Poems

The Lesson
Maya Angelou

I keep on dying again.
Veins collapse, opening like the small fists of sleeping children.

Memory of old Tombs, rotting flesh and worms do not convince me against the challenge. The years and cold defeat live deep in lines along my face.
They dull my eyes, yet
I keep on dying,
because I love to live.

Allen's Word

Alright, now that we have gotten that bit out of the way, I can begin my ranting. The students need some more space. The monitoring is at a level where it has become stifling.

The situation is quite bothersome for the students. Reprimands are dished out for such minor offenses. Walking fast or talking too loud are small problems that don't need so much attention. Teenagers will act a little wild sometimes, but it is not always a volatile situation that needs to be stopped.

The high level of monitoring is only increasing frustrations between the students and monitors. The students need breathing space.

What's Up?

What is your favorite aspect of spring time?

Amanda Ford, teacher
"My favorite aspect of spring time is that everything surrounding us becomes pretty again. Everything smells good and blooms and, of course, babies are everywhere!"

Calvin, Sr.
"The rain."

Julia, Jr.
"My favorite aspect of spring is softball, warm weather, and camping."

David, So.
"It isn't as cold as winter, so I can go outside...Yarr!"

Hayden, Fr.
"It's closer to summer!"
